

KARM AUGUSTIN
Port Au Prince, HAITI

PMC, CLASS OF 2013

MAJOR: Communication
MINOR: Dance

Like I always say, I didn't choose Pine Manor, Pine Manor chose me. As a bilingual student, I was hopeless to find a great school for my education, but Pine Manor came to the rescue. EFP has been a great support for me at PMC. It has helped me improve my English, my writing and my speaking. If I'm a better student today, it is because of EFP. EFP gave me a great family, formed by students from different parts of the world and great teachers who really care about me, in addition to academic success as a student at Pine Manor College.

Karm moved to the U.S. in August of 2008 and graduated from West Roxbury's Media Communication and Technology High School prior to attending PMC. After graduation, she intends to pursue continued study of film production and a career as a producer/writer/TV host.

THE

Enhanced Foundational Program

@PINE MANOR COLLEGE

Program Overview: The distinctive Enhanced Foundational Program (EFP) is a year long program designed to help young women with limited English proficiency to successfully complete a private, four-year degree at Pine Manor College. It features full-credit undergraduate course, individualized tutoring and writing lab sessions, close monitoring by faculty advisor, and a big sister mentoring program. EFP students can expect to complete their bachelor's degree in eight or nine semesters.

Program Structure:

Two semesters of Grammatical Writing

This course stresses language acquisition through an emphasis on grammar usage (prepositions, verb tenses, sentence structure, vocabulary, and syntax) as well as essay writing and the use of topic sentences, summaries and connectors. In the second semester, students will focus on research papers, peer editing, thesis statements, reports and responses to other forms of writing. Students will also gain an understanding of MLA formatting, a format used widely at the college for writing papers and citing sources. (MLA stands for Modern Language Association).

Two semesters of Reading in the Disciplines

This course focuses on comprehension and critical analysis through the reading of short stories, news items, plays and analytical essays. In the second semester, students will focus on literature, critical thinking and analysis, and plays.

First year Seminar

All Pine Manor students are required to take a First Year Seminar in the first semester of their first year. Seminar topics range, but students can expect a list of about 10 seminars from which to choose. Students are asked to rank their top 4 seminar choices to aid the registrar in making FYS assignments.

A full course load for the semester includes 4 courses, or 16 credits. This means students take a total of 8 courses for the year, or 32 credits. EFP students may elect 3 additional courses of their choosing from the list of course offerings for the semester to round out their year.
